COMMISSION DIRECTIVE ../.../EC

of [...]

amending Council Directive 76/768/EEC, concerning cosmetic products, for the purpose of adapting Annexes II and VII thereto to technical progress

(Text with EEA relevance)

THE COMMISSION OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community,

Having regard to Council Directive 76/768/EEC of 27 July 1976 on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to cosmetic products<sup>1</sup>, and in particular Article 8(2) thereof,

After consulting the Scientific Committee on Consumer Products,

Whereas:

- (1) The Scientific Committee on Consumer Products ("SCCP") concluded in its opinion of 20 June 2006 that "Although 4-aminobenzoic acid (PABA) is presently permitted and used as a sunscreen, it became apparent in the process of evaluation of the dossier that much of the information did not conform to current standards and guidelines". In order to carry out a proper risk assessment of 4-aminobenzoic acid the SCCP required a new dossier with additional safety data conform to modern standards and SCCP guidelines to be submitted by cosmetics industry before 1 July 2007.
- (2) The Commission received information from the cosmetics industry that there is no longer interest in using 4-aminobenzoic acid in cosmetic products in the Community market. It appears that the cosmetics industry does not intend to defend the use of PABA as it has not submitted any additional safety data required by the opinion of the SCCP of 20 June 2006.
- (3) Without a proper risk assessment 4-aminobenzoic acid can not be considered safe for use as UV-filter in cosmetics and should therefore be deleted from Annex VII and listed in Annex II to Directive 76/768/EEC.
- (4) Regarding Diethylamino hydroxybenzoyl hexyl benzoate, the SCCP concluded in its opinion of 15 April 2008 that the use of this substance at a maximum concentration of 10% in cosmetic products, including sunscreen products, does not pose a risk to the consumer. In order to extend the scope of the allowed use of this substance column "c" of entry 28 should be amended in Annex VII.
